Russians Reach Last Water Barrier to East Prussia

200,000 Trapped Germans Facing Annihilation

Red Army Captures Oswiec in Poland

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 15 (AP)—Russian shock troops scaled the thirty-foot-high walls of the moated stronghold of Oswiec near the Biebrza river in northern Poland yesterday, bayoneted the German garrison and then rushed up pontoon bridges for an imminent crossing of the Biebrza, last water barrier before German East Prussia, only fifteen miles beyond.

In the north, another powerful Red army swept almost half-way across Estonia and spilled on to the Latvian frontier in a swift drive aimed at splitting in two the 200,000 trapped Nazi troops facing a disaster almost comparable to that suffered at Stalingrad.

Capture Oswiec

Premier-Marshall Joseph Stalin in an order of the day announced the fall of Oswiec, seventeen miles from East Prussia, to Gen. G. P. Zahharov's Second White Russian army which in seven weeks has fought its way 350 miles westward from White Russia and reached the Augustow canal and the adjoining Biebrza river on a forty-five-mile front.

Stalin termed Oswiec a "powerful fortified district in the German defenses of the river Biebrza covering the approaches to the borders of East Prussia," and ordered a Moscow salute of twelve salvos from 124 guns.

Berlin spokesmen, acknowledging the peril to East Prussia warned the German homeland that "a very great trial of strength" was at hand. In Moscow the press printed an appeal quoting Marshal Friedrich von Paulus, captured German commander at Stalingrad, as telling the Germans "the war is lost through the fault of Hitler, and continuance by the Germans is senseless bloodshed."

German Generals Discharged

The man who lost at Stalingrad, now 1,050 miles behind Soviet spearheads which in central Poland are within seventy-five miles of German cities, was the highest-ranking German yet to ask the people to overthrow Hitler. Lt. Gen. Fritz Franke, another captured Nazi officer also made an appeal, the twentieth German general to take that action.

Dewey Preparing Campaign Talks

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey returned to Albany today to find his calendar crisscrossed with calls for a few days, thus leaving him free to devote most of his time to polishing the campaign speeches he began drafting at his Pawling farm.

Dewey is known to be desirous of returning to Pawling as soon as possible to concentrate on the speeches he will deliver next month in his drive for the presidency as Republican nominee.

Two intervening weeks are expected to see Dewey moving only between Albany and Pawling while National Chairman Herbert Brownell, Jr., perfects a nationwide organization to get out the vote. Brownell, who has just returned from a Midwest tour, is in Boston today continuing his organization effort. The twenty-six states having Republican governors form the nucleus of this campaign.

Elliot V. Bell, 41-year-old state superintendent of banks and one of the governor's closest advisers, again rode with him from Pawling. In the party also was Paul E. Lockwood, 42-year-old secretary of the governor. Dewey consulted with both over the weekend during his speech writing.

Dewey will hold a press conference late tomorrow, his first in ten days.

West Virginia Mines Chief Asks Probe of Disaster Blamed to Him

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 14 (AP)—State Mines Chief Jesse Redyard, whose department was charged in a coroner's verdict with negligence in the mine disaster death of sixteen men, called upon Harrison county authorities today to impeach a special grand jury to investigate the accusations.

"In my opinion," wrote Redyard in a letter to Judge Arlos J. Harbert of the criminal court, "if through any negligence of mine, anyone has lost his life, I should be punished for my offense."

On the other hand, if I am innocent of the charge, as I know myself to be, I think that I am entitled to exoneration."

In a verdict submitted early Saturday after an all-night session, the six-man coroner's jury held

DeGaulle Urges Uprising: French Told To Strike Nazis Hard In Support of Great Allied Armies

By JUDSON O'QUINN

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 14 (AP)—People of France were summoned today by Gen. Charles De Gaulle's French Committee of National Liberation to strike for their own freedom with a general uprising against the German conquerors whose hold on the country is weakening under Allied blows.

Calling for a national uprising which would be "the prelude of liberation," the committee stated that "there is not one Frenchman who does not feel and who does not know that it is his simple and sacred duty to take part immediately in the supreme war effort of his country."

The French were told to strike with all their might and to harass the enemy by joining the direct war with the Allied armies, by laying down their tools in Nazi held factories and in the destruction of small German garrisons.

Liberated French Civilians Aided By Allied Group

By HOWARD COWAN

Associated Press War Correspondent

GEN. EISENHOWER'S ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 14 (AP)—Civil affairs units of the Allied armies now are fighting their way through France alongside frontline assault troops to speed relief and restore order in liberated towns and villages. Lt. Gen. A. E. Grasett, assistant chief of staff in Gen. Eisenhower's command disclosed today.

A number of casualties already had been reported among the hand-picked, specially-trained crews who heretofore moved into such areas after resistance had ceased. The Toronto-born British army expert said.

Face Many Problems

The ruthless tactics of the fleeing German army commanders who flooded battle areas with civilian refugees and an assortment of murderers, rapists and thieves turned out of prison cells were among the problems confronting the Allies, the general said in an interview. Despite this, he added, the civilian affairs phase of the French campaign has proceeded smoothly.

Gen. Grasett said officials of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration were studying plans for helping the Liberated countries if the governments of France, Belgium and Holland ask for this aid.

Serious Health Problem

Two of the most important problems—public health and displaced persons—are now receiving the joint attention of the army civil affairs authorities and the UNRRA. Dr. Wilbur Sawyer of New York, UNRRA medical director, and Sir Herbert Young, British official of the UNRRA Displaced Persons Bureau, are in liaison with Gen. Grasett's staff.

Looking toward the day when France will return to a peacetime basis, the Allies last week turned food and clothes rationing over to French authorities.

More Hot Weather For Baltimore Area

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—Further rises in both humidity and temperatures were forecast for the Baltimore area tomorrow by weather bureau meteorologists who said tonight that previously-noted prospects of rain had disappeared.

The bureau said that the mercury was expected to climb to 97 and that there would be virtually no breeze. Today's high was 92 at 4 p. m.

Air Squadron Captures 300 German Soldiers

NINTH UNITED STATES AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 14 (AP)—An airborne Thunderbolt squadron commanded by Col. Robert L. DeLashaw, San Antonio, Tex., captured more than 300 German soldiers on the ground today without landing and without firing a shot.

The planes were strafing trucks along the road when a small group of the enemy appeared and stood on the road waving white flags.

"We hit the deck, buzzed them several times and pretty soon there were several hundred there," related Capt. John R. Williamson, Tuscaloosa, Ala. "We looked for our infantry but didn't see a single dough-bird around so we realized the white flags were meant for us."

The Germans formed into columns of four and started marching down the road toward Allied troops while the planes shuttled back and forth over them and radioed ahead. Soon American ground soldiers came out and took over.

Japan's Defense Line Threatened, Says MacArthur

Americans Drawing Nearer Philippines

By RAY CRONIN

Associated Press War Editor

Japan's main defense line running from the Southwest Pacific northward through the Philippines is threatened by heavy and sustained Allied aerial attacks against Nippon bases on the Dutch East Indies.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said effective air assaults have "greatly weakened the great bastion stronghold centered at Halmahera, major island just 300 miles south of the Philippines."

Jap Airfields Wrecked

The general reported Japanese airfields in the region have been practically neutralized, maritime forces and ground troops immobilized in present positions.

He added the Halmahera base is no longer flexible and that unless the Japanese can correct the weakness "the main line or defense from his conquered empire in the Southwest Pacific extending through the Halmaheras and the Philippines is threatened."

The communique reported new raids on Halmahera that resulted in great fires and explosions. Southwest Pacific bombers hit over a wide area striking Japanese bases at Timor, Manokwari and other points.

This aerial activity against Japan shared the limelight with two impending battles in China where Chinese forces were massing for twin blows in their fight to reopen the strategic Burma Road as a land supply line.

Attack Yunnan Province

Two Japanese strongholds in China's Yunnan province were the immediate objectives of the Chinese offensive that started weeks ago from the Salween river, pointed toward the Burma border. The Chinese were preparing for a smash against the ancient walled city of Tengchung. Others were set to form Lungling, Nippon base on the Burma Road. The Chinese continued to exert pressure on the isolated Japanese garrison at Sungshan.

No Large Increases

"For the time being," he warned, "it is not anticipated that any large increases in production of civilian goods will be possible."

Cutting across eighty-six restrictive orders now in WPB's books, the action empowers WPB field offices over the country to let individual plants make consumer goods hitherto prohibited or restricted.

It provides priority aid also, for concerns willing and able to manufacture any of several hundred "preferred" items listed by WPB as scarce and badly needed.

Millions of Democrats Will Vote for Dewey, Says Louis Bromfield

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 14 (AP)—Author-farmer Louis Bromfield, a Democrat, said here he would vote this fall for Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential candidate.

Bromfield declared President Roosevelt and the administration have grown so old and quarrelsome that it is time for a change in Washington. He predicted at least one-fourth of the Democrats in Ohio will be against the president, and three or four million throughout the nation will vote Republican in November.

The Ohioan added that indications now point to the election of Dewey, but added that progress of the war might alter the election picture.

Night Baseball

AMERICAN LEAGUE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics unleashed a five run barrage in the fourth inning and then pushed across two more runs in the fifth to turn back the Detroit Tigers 7-5 tonight behind the eight-hit pitching of Bobo Newsom.

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Washington defeated Cleveland here tonight 8 to 5.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14 (AP)—Mort Cooper won his sixteenth game of the season tonight scattering nine Dodgers hits as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Brooklyn 4 to 2 and maintained their seventeen and one-half game first place lead.

Government Seizes Five Western Machine Shops in Labor Struggle

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The government today seized five San Francisco machine shops where an AFL machinists union has balked at complying with a War Labor Board order to stop limiting union membership to a 48-hour work week.

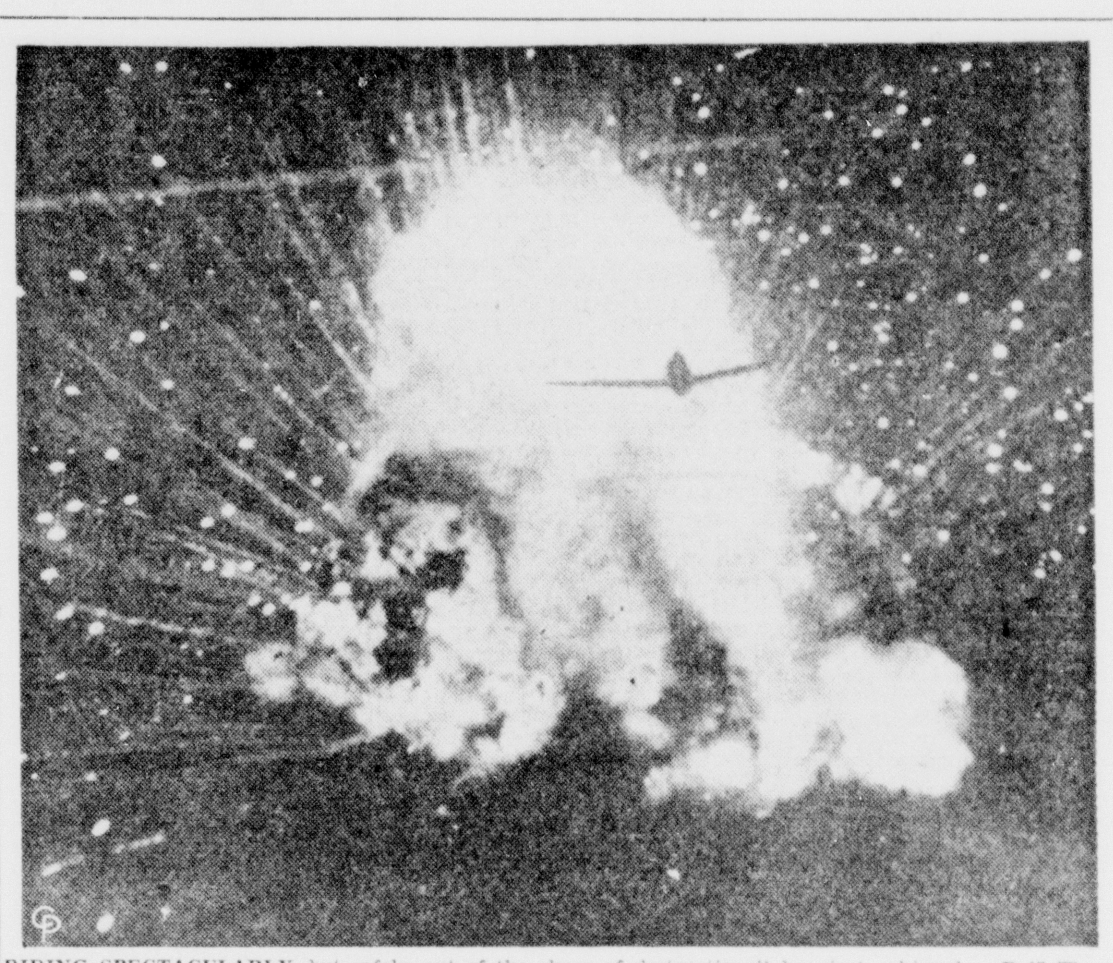

President Roosevelt directed Secretary of the Navy Forrestal to assume nominal control of the plants but to permit the managements to continue normal functions so far as possible.

The five shops were among 104 where the AFL machinists lodge 68 imposed a prohibition against Sunday and overtime work. WLB Chairman William H. Davis, however, advised the president that these five employ the most workers and have been affected most by the union's refusal to withdraw the ban.

Davis said the WLB was hopeful that seizure of the five will bring about an end to the prohibition, which board officials have described as a "limited strike" because it restricts a union member to a 48-hour week.

The WLB order, which the union has defied for several months, did not direct an increase in the work week, but simply called for elimination of the ban so that union members could work if they desired without incurring a union penalty.

THUNDERBOLT ESCAPES ITS OWN LIGHTNING

RIDING SPECTACULARLY, but safely, out of the chaos of destruction it has just achieved, a P-47 Thunderbolt is seen framed in this remarkable action picture. Pilot Capt. Raymond Walsh, Long Island City, N. Y., had risked his neck flying low to blast a Nazi ammunition truck in Brittany and is seen virtually engulfed by flame while the plane comes bravely through.

Nelson Removes Board's Ban on Many Articles

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson tonight lifted the War Production Board's ban on hundreds of civilian articles where local surpluses of labor and machinery permit.

The long-awaited order, delayed since July 1 by the opposition of the army, navy and War Manpower Commission, is effective at midnight. Nelson said the order was the fourth and last in his program to provide a mechanism for partial conversion of industry from wartime to peacetime production.

No Large Increases

"For the time being," he warned, "it is not anticipated that any large increases in production of civilian goods will be possible."

Cutting across eighty-six restrictive orders now in WPB's books, the action empowers WPB field offices over the country to let individual plants make consumer goods hitherto prohibited or restricted.

It provides priority aid also, for concerns willing and able to manufacture any of several hundred "preferred" items listed by WPB as scarce and badly needed.

This preferred list covers such goods as vacuum cleaners, electric ranges, wash tubs, egg beaters, lawn mowers, sewing machines, church goods, bicycles, and oil burners.

If an eligible manufacturer cannot make one of the preferred items, the order provides, he may apply to produce less essential things, but he will not obtain a priority rating.

Slot Machines on List

His application may cover any of the items restricted by the eighty-six orders, including even phonographs, gambling machines and fire-place sets, but WPB's permission in such cases is less likely.

"This is primarily a plan to decentralize some of the operations which will be necessary to 'take up the slack' as men and materials cease to be needed for war purposes," Nelson stated.

"Above everything else it is vital to arrange the machinery, so that in the future when military demands decline or change, the men, the facilities and the materials which are set free can speedily be put to other uses."

Under the terms of the 'spot procedure, field offices will be in a position to authorize production of civilian goods now, provided the materials, manpower, and facilities not needed for war production are available."

Rep. Rowe Seeks GOP House Control

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—A move to reorganize the House and take over the speakership plus the committee chairmanships was revealed in the making today by Rep. Rowe, Republican of Ohio who called it a "protest against delaying tactics" by the majority.

A first-termer, Rowe told reporters he may introduce tomorrow a resolution calling for a new reorganization which would be itself if adopted throw open the speakership held by Democrat Sam Rayburn, of Texas.

Two other commanders were identified—Maj. Gen. Edward H. Brooks as leader of the Second armored division and Maj. Gen. Wade H. Haislip, head of the Fifteenth corps.

With the two full armies disclosed in action, the United States has in France the greatest fighting force ever massed in battle under the American flag—and Bradley has the greatest field command.

How the whole Allied fighting structure in France fitted together still was not disclosed fully.

Two American Armies

There was no indication of any solely American army group, and thus for the moment at least, two American armies apparently still come under the original Twenty-first army group.

That left Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the Twenty-first army group, still officially chief deputy in the field of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the supreme Allied commander.

However, the British-Canadian components of that army group had no announced parallel in an over-all commander, such as Bradley's new position, except for Montgomery. A recent dispatch from Eisenhower's advance command post in France referred to his conferences with "British and American" field commanders.

British Bomb Nazi Lines

A British bomber force—predominantly heavies—blasted paths through the German lines in the Falaise sector in direct support of the major Canadian drive southward attempting to close the narrowing gap to trap Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge's scattered and retreating Seventh army.

Up to 750 American heavy bombers at the same time struck from Italy, smashing German military installations in the Riviera section in the south of France for the third consecutive day of incessant operations by tactical forces of the Mediterranean command.

Marauders and Mitchells of the Second tactical airforce started an aerial offensive in front of the Canadian push shortly before noon, pointing specifically for three German strongpoints along the escape route.

Motorman Denied Job for Duration

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14 (AP)—In the first such drastic action ever taken, Thomas A. Quigley, 30, a motorman and father of two children, was blacklisted for employment in any industry for the duration for failure to comply with an army discharge order to return to work.

General Philip Hayes announced today.

General Hayes, the War department's representative in running the government seized Philadelphia "Transportation Company," said Quigley was the only one of eight discharged PTC workers whom the army had decided to blacklist for future employment.

The army, which took over the lines after a six-day transit strike which began Aug. 1, ordered workers back to their jobs Aug. 6.

Greatest Victory Of Allied Arms In France Looms

By JAMES M. LONG

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE

Tuesday, Aug. 15 (AP)—Triumphant Allied armies welded a trap of steel and artillery fire about the flower of the Seventh German army today in the greatest victory of Allied arms in France and from 100,000 to 200,000 enemy troops turned for a battle to the death.

Backing and forth the flow of bombs and artillery shells sealing a twelve-mile gap at the eastern end of their Normandy "coffin corridor" the Germans checked their rush and some forces swung around west in an attempt to plug their leaking lines.

Invite Destruction

Thus they invited destruction—a consummation which would mean a gigantic victory for the Allies in the battle for Northwestern France, open the road to Paris and clear the way for the final battles for Northwestern and Southern France.

For this stroke, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a dramatic order of the day summoned his armies to drive ahead with every ounce of energy. For here, he said, was "a definite opportunity for a major Allied victory" after which Paris would fall with but little effort.

The southern jaw of the great Allied pincers was being closed by the United States Third Army—which the Germans said was being led by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.—battering up to within eight and a half miles of Falaise.

Canadians Advance

Canadian troops smashed to within three and a half miles of Falaise on the north in a rolling offensive that jumped off Monday after clouds of Allied bombers obliterated a German anti-tank screen before the city.

Between these two forces, long tons from north and south raked every road leading eastward to the Seine and Paris, and waves of bombers added to the hurricane of fire.

Before this gap vanished, Germans had been seen streaming eastward in hawthornets, bicycles and every other farm vehicle they could commandeer toward the uncertain sanctuary of the Seine.

There seemed no explanation for their decision to turn and fight other than that retreat no longer was possible.

Those who escaped the bottleneck were seen racing northeast toward the Seine along a route which Allied mastery of the air has turned into a path of death and destruction.

Commando Kelly, AWOL, Fined $90

FT. BENNING, Ga., Aug. 14 (AP)—T-Sgt. Charles E. "Commando" Kelly, Pittsburgh's one-man army, blamed "well-wishers" today for making him overstay a furlough and receive a court martial punishment of $90 fine and three months restriction to his company area at Ft. Benning.

Results of the court martial were disclosed in a Post-Benning infantry school announcement. Under it, Kelly will lose $15 a month out of his pay for the next six months and not be allowed to leave this military reservation.

The 23-year-old automatic rifleman, who won the Congressional Medal of Honor for his feats of arms in Italy, has been stationed here since July 1. Recently he was allowed to visit his family at Pittsburgh but when he failed to return within the furlough time, he was court martialled on a charge of being absent without official leave.

Bi-Partisan Drive Gets under Way In House for "States Rights" Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—A (R-Il) predicted speedy approval of the George measure, and Rayburn told newspapermen he expected the House to complete action on postwar legislation and be ready to adjourn by September 1.

The George bill leaves to the states the fixing of unemployment compensation rates, while extending coverage to 3,500,000 government employees. The government would reimburse states for payments to ex-federal workers and set up a federal fund to guarantee the solvency of state unemployment systems.

It also creates an Office of War Mobilization and Reconstruction under a presidentially-appointed director to co-ordinate demobilization planning and policies. This phase may be handled by the House in a separate bill.

New Defense Line May Be Planned By the Germans

By KILKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Analyst

Allied forces in Normandy are so close to putting a hangman's noose about substantial portions of the German Seventh army in North-western France as to raise a question whether the Nazi high command has not deliberately sacrificed it to gain time to establish a new defensive front east of the Seine.

Field estimates vary as to the size and composition of the enemy forces trapped in the Normandy pocket. Unofficial guesses place at 100,000 up the number of German troops still west of the Caen-Le Mans road.

Escape Gap Shortened

The Palaise-Agenais gap, the only eastward escape corridor for the foe, had shriveled to a fifteen mile or less handsbreadth between converging Canadian and American forces. It was swept by over-lapping Allied artillery cross fire as well as being bomb deluged from the air.

The probabilities are that German casualties in France since the Allied incursion into Normandy will rise beyond the 300,000 or 350,000 mark, a figure comparable with Nazi losses in the battle of Stalingrad where the "street" from Russia began.

Unless there proves to be another defense line already established along the Seine between Paris and the sea behind which escaping remnants of the Seventh army can shelter and retreat, the Allied march to Paris but up the channel coast lies open once mopping-up in Normandy and Brittany is completed.

General Retreat Likely

The battle of France and the Low countries will have been lost already in a suddenly prolonged delay of Nazi orders for a general retreat to the Seine.

There has been ample time for reserves to be brought up from Southern and Central France, from the Low countries and from Germany itself if they are available. Allied air reports have indicated large westward troop movements, the largest of which was the bombing operation of the Seine have been continuously aimed. If they have reached the Normandy front at all, however, it appears they have been sucked into the maw of the Allied attack piecemeal as were the British reserves, merely swelling the casualty toll.

Seine Line Vulnerable

At no time since the earliest days of the invasion have the Germans managed to concentrate sufficient powers for a major counterattack. It appears possible, however, that all Northwestern France, perhaps including Paris, was written off by the Germans as lost except for delaying action purposes after the American breakthrough at Avranches. If the Seine front has been manned as the next defense line, it would still prove the assumed main target of the Allied march eastward.

That seems to have been the mission of the Seventh army. As the situation for the Germans now stands in France, nevertheless, the Seine line is definitely vulnerable even if heavily manned, once the full weight of Allied power is available. General Eisenhower's unusual order to his troops calling for the final and conclusive effort to complete the victory in Normandy makes it clear that more than reconquest of Paris or even annihilation of the Seventh Nazi army is now at stake.

Greatest Victory

indicated some of the escaped units were captured.

But Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now disclosed to be the overall commander of all United States forces in France—declared he was confident the bulk of the Seventh could not escape.

That could be anything from 100,000 to 200,000 soldiers, as many or more than the Allies have captured since invasion day.

As the Canadians and the Americans pressed in from the north and south, Americans and British were caving in the pocket from the west and northwest. Doughboys alone fought eastward as much as twelve miles.

The British captured Thury-Harcourt, Orne river bastion below Caen, wiped out the last German wedge to the east as far as the Laize river, and drove on south.

One column closed to within two miles of Conde-Sur-Noireau on the northwest, steadily ironing out the German bulge that remains west of the Orne.

American driving from Mortain reached Domfront, thirteen miles east, and a parallel column, plunging through demoralized enemy forces, reached the village of Ger in a six-mile push from Mortain.

Another armored force, guarding against any attempt at a German break south from the pocket, stabbed to Rames, eleven miles south-west of Argentan and ran into resistance. Other pockets were being mopped up near Alencon.

100 localities in its race toward the Gulf of Riga, now less than eighty miles west of the Soviet spearheads. Berlin, admitting Soviet strides on this front, said Maslennikov had buried twenty infantry and four tank divisions, or about 250,000 men, against the battered Germans, who have been ordered by Hitler to fight an "insular defense" in a sacrificial effort to delay the impending Soviet blows on East Prussia.

Besides taking Antala, the Russians also captured Tsooru, seven miles to the southeast and twenty miles east of Valga, which sits astride the Estonian-Latvian border. There, near the Latvian border, twenty miles southwest of Pelti, also was seized as Russian troops poured into Northern Latvia.

Travis Enjoys First Vacation in 50 Years

The familiar face of Frank Travis, fireman and mail handler, is missing these days at the central station of the Western Maryland Railway Company, and the reason is that he is enjoying his first vacation in fifty years.

Travis, who resides with his family in Ridgeley, came to this country from Italy when a child and never knew what it was to enjoy a vacation until this year.

Oldtimers say that he grew up with the railway and central station was built around him while he was playing marbles. He started to work for the company as trackman when in his teens and now handles the furnace and handles mail at the local depot.

The genial, kindly man, noted for his friendly disposition and willingness to help people, will be back on the job after he completes his first vacation.

Pictures Are Taken From Honor Roll

Fifteen of the thirty-three pictures on the honor roll of the Ridgeley United Brethren church were ripped from their places between Sunday, July 30 and Sunday, August 6, the Rev. E. G. A. Snider, pastor announced yesterday, and added that he and members of the congregation are mystified as to the motive of the persons responsible.

Snider said that he believed entrance to the church was gained by way of the coal chute which had been left open, the pastor said. "We are most anxious to have the pictures returned and if they are there will be no prosecution."

Gas Is Available For CAP Flying

Capt. Arthur Lyem, commander of Western Maryland Squadron, No. 331, CAP announced that the OPA Rationing Board request pilots and plane owners be reminded that they are still required to submit "R" gas coupons for gasoline bought for private planes. He stresses that there will be no difficulty in getting the coupons for gas used in CAP flying. The coupons can be obtained by applying to the local rationing board with a statement as to the purpose for which the gas is to be used.

Capt. Lyem emphasized the fact that although certain limitations are being placed on some private flying, in no event will it affect CAP official flying.

Reddick evened last minute in the tenth and final round, but Williams had piled up a tremendous advantage in the early stages.

Frontline Captured By Eighth Army

By NOLAND NORGARD
ROME, Aug. 14 (AP)—Eighth army troops inching toward the Adriatic end of the German Gothic line in Italy have captured the mountain town of Frontone on the north bank of the Cesano river twenty-seven miles from the sea. Allied headquarters announced today.

This was the only significant ground action along the Italian front, where Allied authorities devoted their major effort to the relief of the hungry and thirsty civilian population of Florence.

Allied motor convoys poured ton after ton of food and water into the historic city. The Allied Military government reported 450 tons of food already had been distributed.

Anti-typhus serum and other medical supplies also were sent into the city which the Germans had evacuated.

60 Soldiers Become Citizens near Front

AN ADVANCED UNITED STATES BASE, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—Delayed—Sixty American combat troops fighting the Japanese on this New Guinea perimeter, came out of foxholes and other front line positions recently to be naturalized.

Dr. Henry B. Hazard, of the United States Immigration and Naturalization service, administered the final oath of citizenship about 1,000 yards behind the firing line as the Royal Australian Air Force protected the participants with an aerial umbrella.

After the oath the new citizens trotted back to their foxholes and combat stations.

Sailors' Newspaper Puzzle to Civilians

BAINBRIDGE, Md., Aug. 14 (AP)—Paper of the Maineshead, official weekly newspaper of the Bainbridge Naval Training Center, are "numbered" nautically.

This week's ten-page paper, for example, carries their headings on pages 2 to 10: "Port bow, starboard bow, forward of beam, starboard beam, port beam, aft beam, port quarter, starboard quarter, stern."

Gov. Green Sees Sweep for Dewey

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 14 (AP)—Governor Dwight H. Green of Indiana predicted here that Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and John W. Bricker of Ohio, Republican presidential and vice-presidential nominees, would be elected "by an avalanche of voters."

Green in an address prepared for a statewide gathering of Indiana Republicans said that "the twenty-six states which now have Republican governors can alone give Governor Dewey more than enough votes to win." He also predicted Indiana, whose chief executive (Henry F. Schricker) is a Democrat, would add its electoral vote "to the Republican victory column."

"I have no hesitancy now," Green said, "in forecasting the greatest victory for the republic and for the Republican party this nation has ever witnessed."

10 Marks Offered For Hitler's Head

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP)—An Absie (American Broadcasting Station in Europe) broadcast picked up by NBC stated that posters signed "Carl Goerdler" and offering a reward of ten marks for Hitler's head appeared on public buildings in Germany.

Dr. Goerdler, former mayor of Leipzig who is being sought in connection with the Hitler assassination plot, has a Gestapo-fixed price of 1,000,000 marks on his head.

Chemical details were withheld, but the council said the super-gasoline "the world's finest flying fuel" and said it was designed to "draw from the futuristic B-32 bombers, lethal B-29 Superfortresses and the most modern fighter escort planes their originally intended maximums in sustained speed, short take-offs combat radius, and load-carrying capabilities."

Quantity Production Soon
The announcement said the oil industry scientists predict that quantity production of the new gasoline would permit "possible Allied bombing of the Japanese mainland on a suburban service schedule."

The signal for production is expected to be given "as and when military plans permit"—that is, "should a shift in United States military strategy suddenly call for a change in 100-octane aviation gasoline production from volume to volatility."

Total Capacity In Use
William R. Boyd, Jr., chairman of the industry council, said that because of military requirements of the moment, volume production of the new fuel must follow the quantity production of present-grade aviation gasoline for prosecution of the European war. At present, all available refining capacity of the United States and in the Pacific with more than 500,000 barrels a day of 100-octane gasoline, Boyd said.

Chemists Produce Super-Gasoline

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—A super-gasoline powerful enough to enable the giant B-29 and B-32 bombers to perform at their maximum capabilities in raiding Japan has been developed by American chemists and will go into production when the military gives the command.

The petroleum industry war council says that about eighty per cent of the nation's high-octane gasoline capacity is primed to switch over to the new fuel with only minor changes in facilities.

Details Withheld

Chemical details were withheld, but the council said the super-gasoline has a "vastly-improved octane rating" over the 100-octane fuel now used in battle planes.

The council called the "X" octane gasoline "the world's finest flying fuel" and said it was designed to "draw from the futuristic B-32 bombers, lethal B-29 Superfortresses and the most modern fighter escort planes their originally intended maximums in sustained speed, short take-offs combat radius, and load-carrying capabilities."

"For Contented Pigs"

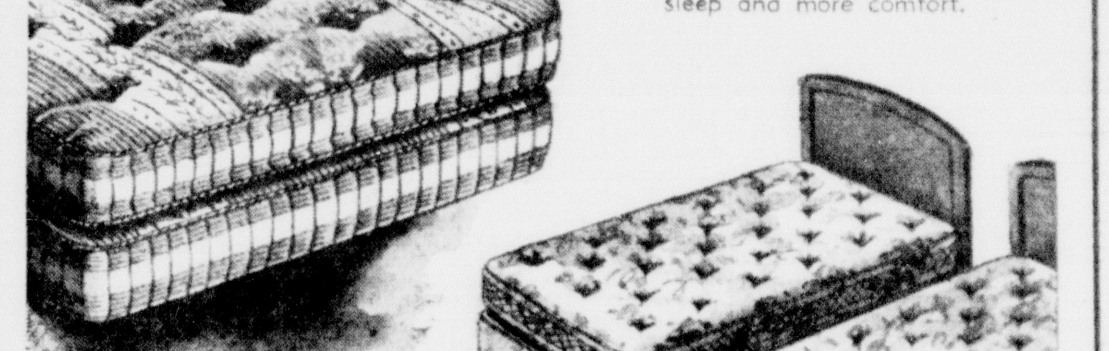

YES, IT'S TRUE! That the thick syrup (thicker than molasses) cooked from distillers grains, malt, wheat, and rye, is the best pig feed according to a very successful feed dealer and farmer of many years standing. The pigs simply go wild for it and it is also very reasonable. Dependable supply. Bring containers. Some farmers when they take it home, add ten parts water to each part syrup depending upon their needs. Also good for cattle and chickens. Write for sample.

The Deeper Issue
Of Centralization

THE UNDERLYING ISSUE which brought the decisive vote on the Murray-Kilgore reconversion bill was not the humanitarian phase despite the cries of those who sought to fasten opposition to that on the part of those voting for the George measure.

All are agreed that there should be some reasonable compensation for those affected by industrial reconversion. There is general agreement that there must be a reasonable medium between a compensation sufficient to forestall want and suffering and one going to the point where it would promote deliberate idleness. The fundamental cleavage was between centralization and states' rights.

That the latter won out by so emphatic a majority is taken as indication of a trend which will be reflected in the House. It is a wholesome movement. It is refreshing that the difference is not marked altogether along partisan lines but represents a split in Democratic thought beyond the party line. It is wholesome because so many majority party members showed appreciation of the fact that the basic issue was deeper.

This marks a definite curbing of the centralization movement that has been fostered and built up to such an enormous degree within recent years, marks also a positive trend against it. This arrest of that movement is something for which American citizens in general can feel profoundly grateful. Let it be hoped that the trend will continue to expand with accelerating power until it is definitely registered through the ballot.

There is a prime and moving reason for this. It is that the menace of centralization affects the liberties of the people so vitally that it should be the greatest concern of everybody. "The history of liberty," declared Woodrow Wilson, "is a history of the limitation of governmental power, not the increase of it. When we resist, therefore, the concentration of power, we are resisting the processes of death, because concentration of power is the way proceeds the destruction of human liberties."

Another quotation is pertinent: "History," says Eric Johnston, "is replete with proof that concentrated power is not only a corrupting but a perpetuating force. Those who acquire it tend to hoard it and to expand it at every opportunity, just as other people hoard and increase their physical possessions."

The history of the last several years has given ample proof of that in this country.

When Germany
Surrenders

WITH his armies in general retreat on all fronts and all his works blasted by gigantic air attacks, Hitler has called the very young and the aged to fall back to the reserves, indicating that the Reich has little or nothing left in the form of manpower.

In spite of Hitler's boast that Germany is now engaged in total war, that total is far less than needed to change or delay the final result. Germany is in its death throes.

With Germany out of the war, it will be natural for those at home to assume it is all over. Many civilians may forget that there is another war to win, and a tougher one from all indications. American troops in Europe will not be sent home. Instead they will rest on their arms, awaiting the next assignment.

Many of Japan's outer defenses have been cracked, but there remains the more important job of moving in to the mainland and visiting final destruction on the Japs.

Germany's downfall will be an important event in world history, but one which should be greeted with satisfaction instead of shouting. Americans should remain at their tasks instead of engaging in exuberant dancing in the street. A seven-minute stretch might be appropriate, but the parades must wait word from Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz that the Rising Sun has definitely gone into eclipse.

Rocket Weapons Not A Nazi Possession

THOSE who rightly view with alarm the devastation caused by the Nazis' robot plane, or "buzz-bomb," are moved to inquire why this country does not utilize something in kind against the enemy.

The answer is that the robot plane as used by the Nazis is of no military significance. It is a terror weapon only directed against concentrated civilian populations and having nothing more than a psychological effect save where it may strike a military objective purely by accident which is seldom.

But let no one be worried that Americans are not making good use of rocket type weapons. The deadly "bazooka" is an example. But that rocket weapon is only the forerunner of even deadlier weapons of the same type. It has been revealed, for example, in a navy-approved announcement, that motors for heavy caliber rocket shells of the new type used on Allied invasion barges have been in secret assembly line production for several months in the Detroit plant of Nash-Kelvinator Corporation.

The deadly jet-propelled rockets, dubbed "super-bazookas," by those engaged in their manufacture, are mounted on landing barges and provide a fierce concentration of fire power used to shell enemy shore installations. They are used also against other military installations. They are much larger than the earlier "bazookas" used so effectively by Allied troops as tank busters.

The "super-bazooka" is mounted upon a strange multiple-barreled mechanism which simultaneously discharges several big rockets. The rocket motor itself is comprised of a long fuel chamber, a jet known as a "discharge venturi," directional guiding vanes and electrically fired percussion contacts. Unlike the conventional heavy-duty shells, the velocity of the rocket accelerates while the projectile is traveling toward its objective.

The Nazis may develop and utilize their haphazard robot planes, but Americans have not been asleep at the switch in developing equally deadly but, what is more important, more accurate and more effective weapons in kind.

The Line That Wasn't There

FOR MORE THAN TWO YEARS the Goebbels propaganda mill has been churning out photographs and stories of an inner defense line guarding the approaches to Paris. Even if the Allies were to force a small beachhead in Europe, said the Nazi propagandists, they would be cut to pieces in their futile efforts to breach this tremendous fortress, variously referred to as the "Hitler line," the "von Rundstedt line" or the "Rommel line."

But like so many other things emanating from Germany, this vast and unbreakable defense line has proved to be only a myth. There are no fixed fortifications anywhere short of the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

Military observers in France report that apparently the Germans staked everything on a coastline bristling with guns and barbed wire. When that was penetrated, there was no other set line.

This does not mean that all the Allies have to do is to march into Paris. The German army is probably the best-schooled one in the world in the theory of counter-attack and it can be expected to put up many a desperate and costly skirmish on the road to the French capital.

Counterattack or no counterattack, the Germans can not hope to hold back the drive on Paris. For one thing, they do not have the trench manpower. For another, Allied air superiority is so telling that it is sapping away German army morale in France.

To date, Goebbels has not attempted to explain the smashing of the magnificent fortifications he dreamed up for the benefit of the master race.

A Campaign
Contrast

IT IS already becoming plain that the management of the Republican and Democratic campaigns affords an interesting and significant contrast in political technique, despite the fact that both of the active leaders are comparatively young men.

Robert E. Hannegan, national chairman of the Democratic party, is imbued with the ideas and ideals, if any, of old-line ward politics. He is a product of the machines and his methods, as demonstrated in the Wallace-Truman clash at Chicago, are those of the Hagues, the Kellys and the Pendergasts.

Herbert Brownell, Jr., generalissimo of the Republican party, is representative of unorthodox procedure within the political realm. He is scientific, thorough, modern—and definitely at odds with the devices so long used by the big city bosses.

If the Dewey-Roosevelt contest does nothing else, it should shed light on the relative strength of these conflicting philosophies in an actual race for high political honors. Though they will be working behind the scenes, Hannegan and Brownell in more than one sense personify the basic differences of the 1944 campaign.

"What is certain," says the Baltimore Sun, "is that if Mr. Roosevelt is defeated and Mr. Dewey is elected in his place, most of the internal resentments which have been built up in these years will be dissipated." Certainly the people are pretty well fed up with them.

Mental poise, or equilibrium, will be needed as never before in the man who will guide this nation through the harrasing days of the war reconversion period. Governor Dewey possesses it in marked degree.

Can we expect the commander-in-chief to be visiting all the various battlefronts from now until after the November election? It seems that there is a lot of "inspecting" to be done right now.

Ten Ways To Please
A Husband

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Being a husband, too, I know something about this matter. I know what pleases me and I know what makes me grumpy. I know that many of the things that please me are not good for me. Some are neither good nor bad for me, but they happen to be what I like. . . . So here are ten ways to please a husband. I could think of twice as many, but these will do for a starter.

1. Praise a husband occasionally. He has at least one good point even if it's only a wave in his hair. And he likes to hear you praise him. 2. Let him fix things around the house. The vacuum sweeper or the gas range. He may be grumpy when you ask him, but he likes to think there are things only a man can do. 3. When you are out in company, don't tell stories that make him seem ridiculous. A husband's pride is longer than an elephant's memory. 4. Don't ask him what he had for lunch. Nearly all men about what they eat away from home—and they hate to lie because it makes them feel inferior.

5. Never ask him what he does with his spending money. All he spends small sums foolishly, know that they do and do not wish to change their ways. 6. Don't ask him how many cigars or cigarettes he smokes a day. He will not tell even his doctor and he does not wish to tell anybody. 7. Before you accept an invitation to go anywhere for the evening, consult him if you can. He likes to have people think he's that important in his own home. 8. If you'd be willing to marry him a second time, let him know it. It'll make him very proud, and he'll try to live up to your good opinion of him.

9. Let him have a night out regularly. Men, like children, like to feel "free." They like other men to think they can "get out" whenever they feel like it. LOVE HIM. That pleases a man more than all the nine other ways wrapped up together and tied with pink ribbon. Do that, and the rest will take care of itself.

NO, GUESS NOT

Rout of Socialists in Canada Is Viewed
As a Trend To Be Felt in This Country

By PAUL MALLON

QUEBEC, Aug. 14.—The Canadian elections last week may be a forerunner of what is at hand in the United States, as the issues and trends are somewhat the same.

The popular publicity trend toward socialism could hardly be found in the ballot boxes when the votes were counted. Here in Quebec, the center of political power in Canada comparable to our combined eastern states, a provincial victory went to the "Union Nationale."

The name is meaningless. The party is not for a nationalistic union of the provinces, but ran on the opposite platform—states rights. Maurice Duplessis, leader of the party, based his campaign against the centralization of power in the Ottawa federal government and mentioned no other issue. Roughly, he played Dewey against liberal Premier Mackenzie King's Roosevelt, although he is probably more conservative than Dewey.

Not Expected

No one expected Duplessis to win. The advance canvassers concluded that the election would enable the Socialists (CCP party) to eat into the liberal control of the province, causing a three-way split with no one in an absolute majority. But when the votes were counted, there were practically none for the Socialists.

In an incomplete count, they polled about one-third-fourth of the vote cast. Indeed, they had only half as many as all the scattered minor parties at the bottom of the list, and got one Parliament seat from a remote new mining district. Almost as badly defeated were the Nationalists (Bloc Populaire), which won only four seats.

The liberal party, represented provincially by Premier Godbout, swept through the cities of Montreal and Quebec, as they say Roosevelt will, but the farmers and small villagers surprisingly gave the majority of Parliament to Duplessis, plurality over liberal 4,737, absolute majority two or three votes, ousting the Godbout government from majority control.

Alarmed over Centralization

Obviously, they were alarmed at the centralization of war powers in the national government. Dissatisfaction with rationing, regulations, red tape, is apparent here as in the states, although less is said about it publicly.

The Quebec taxi drivers, for instance, called a strike the week before election. (It is popular to call strikes near election-time as the union leaders believe they can get more out of the politicians at that time, a factor which also explains the Montreal tramway strike, where the union tried to amass more power for post war by getting a closed shop.)

The Ottawa price commissioner declined the taxi demands, but on the eve of election the provincial (state) labor minister defied the national price commissioner and told the taxmen to charge what they asked, saying he would "take care of Ottawa."

STATE BAR HEAD

FREDERICK W. C. WEBB, state bar attorney, is the new president of the Maryland State Bar Association. Webb took office at the association's recent convention in Baltimore.

It is true this state's rights sentiment is solidified here by French Canadian fear that they will lose the preponderant use of the French language in this province, their schools, etc., if Ottawa takes too much power, but no one in Ottawa has proposed that yet, or probably ever will.

Liberal Stronghold

Premier Mackenzie King, as all predecessors, plays up to Quebec. Since he is one of the three Canadian liberal strongholds that has kept him in power nationally, and in fact might yet vote for him in fall elections, depending on who is running against him nationally.

The western province of Alberta is politically wild, woolly, and full of antics. There the Social Credit government swept the CCP Socialists nearly off the slate, giving them but two seats. The farmers would not go to political meetings, did not listen to either side, but continued to get in their crops. It was an unusual campaign.

In the cities also, there were few meetings, but hot arguments on the street corners. As politics goes in Alberta, the Social Credits are the conservatives. They are extremist social security advocates, but they feared the Socialists, and, before their windfall, all Alberta experts claimed the election in doubt.

Definite Program

I think the people just found the Socialists out. This CCP has a definite, complete socialization program. It proposes federally to take over banks, railroads, businesses now in private hands, and to issue to the stockholders a non-interest bearing bond.

Now who is going to keep a non-interest bearing bond? These naturally would be cashed in with the government, the people's treasury. So the people, now burdened with excessive taxation, would have to bear the additional post-war burden of purchasing every business in the country. It does not make sense.

CCF tried to get the farm vote by leaving the farmer out of their program allowing him to continue to own his small farms. But the farmers had more sense. They also pay taxes.

Cleavage in Vote
On Reconversion
Is Called Typical

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the Senate last week was a vote in which one party, the Democrats, divided almost exactly in half—twenty-three for, twenty-two against. (Incidentally, twenty-two material here, the Republicans voted almost as a solid unit—twenty-six for, only three against.)

By examining the principles associated with the measure on which the Democrats split, we may particularly identify the issues that divide the party. The division exists not only in Congress but in the rank and file of the party. It reflects the existence within one of the country's great parties, of two groups associated with the utterly antagonistic ideologies.

But to look on this as merely a cleavage in one of the two great parties would be superficial. The issues involved concern both parties and all the people. They go to the deeps of government. Final decision on them one way or the other will set the pattern of the country's future.

Federal versus State Control
The vote was a choice between two methods of providing unemployment ment grants to workers in war industries after war industry ceases and until they find places in peace industries. By one method the grants would be made and administered by the states, and the amounts of the grants determined by the states. By the other method, the amounts of the grants would be determined by the federal government.

That was one issue. Another was associated with size of the public debt. The proposed federal grant was high, as much as $35 a week in the original bill, later amended to $25. The state grants, fixed by the amounts which the states already pay in ordinary unemployment insurance, would be less, in most states a maximum of $20 a week.

Without attributing points of view to individuals, it may be said that many of those who voted for the larger grant reflected a school of thought which does not consider an immense public debt to be necessarily a national danger. Those who voted for the smaller grant reflect a school of thought which holds that when a public debt passes a certain danger point, it is likely to be followed by far reaching changes in the fields of society and government.

Issues Broader

The issues were broader than size of the public debt and what that entails, and broader than the distinction between federal functions and state functions. In the broadest sense the issues involved were the whole ideology of the two groups who now compose the Democratic party.

It would be definitely untrue to suggest that all who voted for higher grants, and for determination of the size by the federal government, were moved by deference to CIO and its Political Action committee. Neither would it be accurate to say that CIO was the sponsor, in any special sense, of the contention for higher grants to be fixed by the federal government, though this charge was made in the debates. Other labor groups and other schools of thought were on the same side.

But it is accurate to say that CIO was strong in advocacy of larger grants federally determined. It is also accurate to say that some in Congress, out of either sympathy with CIO or fear of its political power, tend to act as CIO wishes. In the private talk of congressmen, the term "CIO-ers" has lately come to be used to describe some members, as familiarly as the term "New Dealers," or even "Democrats" or "Republicans."

Cleavage Widespread

Beneath it all, beneath this presidential campaign, beneath the struggle for control of the government, and for influence on the American mind, it is a cleavage, especially conspicuous within the Democratic party, but dining throughout the country's political mechanisms and political thought. As it expresses itself within the Democratic party, there is on one side the old-school Democrats, with the principles and points of view traditionally associated with the party. On the other side is the group in which CIO and its Political Action committee is the most conspicuous and the most aggressive, but which embraces other groups of varying degrees of left-wing thought, which stand with CIO in supporting Mr. Roosevelt for a fourth term, including the American Labor party and the Communists.

What the country needs to be informed about is, just what does the left-wing group stand for? Accepting that CIO is less radical than the Communists, there remains the question—just what ideas and purposes compose the common denominator of the group as a whole? Just what effects some intended and some unintended, would follow if the left wing movement should become dominant in one of the country's two great parties?

New Mandate Plan
For Pacific Islands
Is Seen Necessary

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The United States government intends that neither France nor Great Britain again exercise exclusive sovereignty over any important strategic islands in areas of the Pacific ocean adjacent to South America as well as to Jap and the Asiatic mainland.

This momentous decision was revealed in an incidental passage of President Roosevelt's speech broadcast from Seattle on his return from a visit to the Hawaiian and the Aleutian Islands. What the president said will bring satisfaction not only to those naval officers who have all along been insisting that this is essential to the safety and security of the United States in the future but it will assure every soldier, sailor and marine who has fought in the Pacific that his efforts and the sacrifices of those who have lost their lives already will not be in vain.

Joint Authority Meant

The statement that neither Great Britain nor France is to retain unlimited sovereignty over previous possessions in the Pacific does not mean, however, that the United States expects to obtain that sovereignty for itself. Instead a system of joint trusteeship is to be evolved in which the United States expects to deploy her own defensive or peacetime forces in preponderant numbers along with other forces from the United Nations. It is to be assumed that under the same system of unified command which in this war has existed so harmoniously in the entire Pacific area east of Singapore, admirals or generals of the United States will be in command of any and all Allied forces in the islands to be placed under joint trusteeship.

No annexation of territory or curtailment of the pledges in the so-called Atlantic Charter is in any way involved. After World War I, a system of "mandates" or international trusteeship was put into effect but Japan was given the mandate for most of the islands in the Western Pacific, and as for Australia, New Zealand and the French government which received authority over some of the other islands under mandate, none possessed naval or military forces adequate to protect the interests or safety of the United States. This, it is resolved, shall not happen again.

Importance Defined

It is important to examine carefully the language of the president's first public statement of American policy on the strategic islands of the Pacific.

"We understand at last," he said, the importance of the Hawaiian Islands. It is important that we have other bases—forward bases nearer to Japan than they lie. The same thing is true in regard to the defense of all the American republics from Mexico past the Panama canal and all the way down to Chile. There are hundreds of islands in the South Pacific which bear the same relation to South America and the Panama canal as Hawaii bears to North America.

"These islands are possessions of the British empire and the French. They are important commercially just as they are from the defense point of view for they lead to New Zealand, Australia, the Dutch Indies and the Southern Philippines. With all these we shall undoubtedly have a growing trade."

"We have no desire to ask for any possessions of the United Nations. But the United Nations who are working so well with us in the winning of the war will I am confident, be glad to join with us in protection against aggression and in machinery to prevent aggression. With them and with their help I am sure that we can agree completely so that Central and South America will be as safe against attack from the South Pacific as North America is going to be from the North Pacific. The self-interests of our Allies will be affected by fair and friendly collaboration with us. They will gain economically. The destinies of the peoples of the whole Pacific will for many years be entwined with our own destiny."

Same Civil Administrations

What the president apparently has in mind is that civil administration in such big islands, for instance, as New Guinea or New Caledonia, would continue in the future as in the past under British and French authority respectively where their sovereignty has previously prevailed. But complete military authority would be exercised by the United States as trustee for the United Nations. This country's military officers therefore would be in actual command of any and all areas needed for air or naval or army bases so that defense activities can always be immediately put into operation the moment any threat of aggression appears on the horizon.

It is likely, however, that the United States will be more interested in manning bases closer to Japan and the Aleutians than in the Southwest Pacific but for the moment the broad principle enunciated by President Roosevelt serves as a hint of one of the principal points the United States government will insist upon when a peace settlement is made by the United Nations after the close of the war against Japan. Owens Lauds Coach
Of High School Days

CHICAGO (AP)—Jesse Owens, the Ohio State negro runner who made track history in the 1935 Western Conference meet by breaking world records in the 220-yard low hurdles, the 200-yard dash and the broad jump and matching the 100-yard dash mark attributes most of his success to his early coaching.

Charles Riley first saw possibilities in Owens at Fairmount Junior high in Cleveland.

"Riley wouldn't let me open up until I was over 19," says Owens, "and then he brought me along slowly. I'm in good shape even today. I weigh 162 pounds, my best weight while at Ohio State.

Manley Memorial Will Climax Second Week of Fairgo Racing

Queen City Neon and F. O. Eagles Trophies Will Feature Today's Program

Topped by the running of the Harry A. Manley Memorial on Saturday, the second and final week of racing at Fairgo will get under way this afternoon at 2:30 after a record-breaking opening week.

Today's program will be marked by two feature races—the Queen City Neon trophy and the F. O. Eagles trophy. At least one feature will be carded every day and one the final afternoon, the $10,000 Manley Memorial will be run over the six and one-half furlong route instead of a mile and a sixteenth.

Inaugurated in 1936 as the Manley Memorial in 1943 upon the death of the president of the Cumberland Fair Association, the Manley will be run for the ninth time. The owner of the winning horse will receive a leg on the silver trophy imported from England, and which was a part of the collection of King George III of England.

The Queen City Neon event today will be for three year olds and up over the five furlong route. Named to compete are Golden Media, Milk Chocolate, Jackina, Outcome, Bay-meila, Sack, Flower Battle and Discretion with Fleetest and Aiken also eligible.

The F. O. Eagles trophy, for three year olds and up, fillies and mares, will be a mile and a sixteenth. Entered are Wildmote, Dainty Ford, Gratis, Danzig, Lena-Girl, Dora K. Merciless and Destination with Mayfair also eligible.

Only sixteen favorites won in the forty races programmed last week by Secretary Eddie Brennan but the betting soared to a new high with $946,929 being wagered compared to $561,451 going through the mutuels during the first five days last year. In addition, a new high for a single day—$231,217—was wagered Saturday.

Key Sammy Palumbo is setting the pace among the riders for the diamond ring offered by Harvey's jewelry store. Palumbo has scored sixty-four points by riding nine winners, four seconds and seven thirds. Johnny Tammara, of Baltimore, is Palumbo's closest rival with forty-six markers.

K. D. Koelsh and Tom Lewis top the trainers with three winners each.

Boston Sox Trim Brownies' Margin By Winning 5 to 1

BOSTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—With Right-hander Emmett O'Neill tossing four-hit ball, the Boston Red Sox today reduced the St. Louis Browns' lead to five and a half games by defeating those American League pacemasters, 5-1.

O'Neill, winner of his three previous starts, limited the Browns to two hits until the ninth, when George McQuinn's double and Vern Stephens' single cleared him out of a shutout.

The sockers hammered Starter Denny Galehouse, who was striving for his sixth straight win, for eleven of their twelve hits and all of their runs before he was relieved for a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning.

None of the Red Sox was able to reach first base until they tied off against Galehouse for six singles and three tallies in the sixth inning.

The other two Boston tallies were made in the seventh when, with two out, Leon Culberson hit safely and George Metkovich parked a homer, his fifth of the season, into the right field stands. The box:

Defense Worker Paces Qualifiers In PGA Tourney

Freddie Annon, Mamaronck, N. Y., Shoots Four under Par 68

By RUSS NEWLAND
SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 14 (AP)—Freddie Annon, 30-year-old defense plant worker and golf pro from Mamaronck, N. Y., grabbed the lead in the 1944 national P.G.A. tournament today, when he posted four-under par 68 for the first half of the thirty-six-hole qualifying test at the Manito course.

A stroke behind the Mamaronck shooter with 69s were Morrie Gravatt, Williamsport, Pa., and Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., tagged by his fellow competitors as the man to beat for the PGA championship. Nelson is a former United States open and PGA titlist.

The New Yorker, qualifying for the first time in the national title chase for professionals, chalked up a pair of 34s on the 36-36-72 course.

70 Starters in Field
It gave him at least a temporary lead when approximately two-thirds of the field of seventy starters had checked in.

Annon's putter saved him throughout the round. His approaches to the green were nothing to write home about. On the eighteenth he battled the ball over to backside heavy grass, but came back to drop a ten footer.

Gravatt, a slim army service reject who spent eighteen months helping build the Alaska highway, played well in every department to take the heavily wooded Manito course to pieces in his opening round.

It enabled him to set the pace for some better known fellow pros, notably, Harold McSpaden, of Philadelphia, leading bond winner this year, who finished his first eighteen with a 36-34-70. Par for the layout is a pair of 36s.

Gravatt hustled two birdies on the first nine but lost a stroke with a bogey. He came back with another pair of birdies on the incoming nine.

Course Tough for Some
Meanwhile the course proved more tough for such fellows as W. A. Stakehouse, of Sequim, Tex., and Neil Christian, Spokane, both veterans of major tournament play. They posted 72s, not bad but not sufficient to knock at the big money door among the $30,000 prize monies.

Other crackshots who bumped into trouble included Pay Coleman, Los Angeles, with a 76 and Harry Netteblad, Avon, Conn., with a 75. Netteblad has some excuse. He works fifty-six hours a week in a war plant and teaches golf during the days. He took his vacation to play in the championship.

Steven Savel, of Schenectady, N. Y., a newcomer to big tournament competition, banded out a 72 to be well up among the early finishers. Henry Williams, of Roversford, Pa., Purvis J. Perree, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Mike Demassey, of San Jose, Calif., all came through with 73s.

Nesh, a sergeant, recently returned from action in North Africa and Sicily. Born in Venezuela, he has been a naturalized citizen since 1936 and in the army since Pearl Harbor.

Among the many contests which he promoted in South America was the Sixto Escobar-Simon Chavez bout.

He plans to return to the boxing game after the war but at the moment is active only as a judge or referee of fights at Holabird.

Easter Football Group Approves Rules Changes

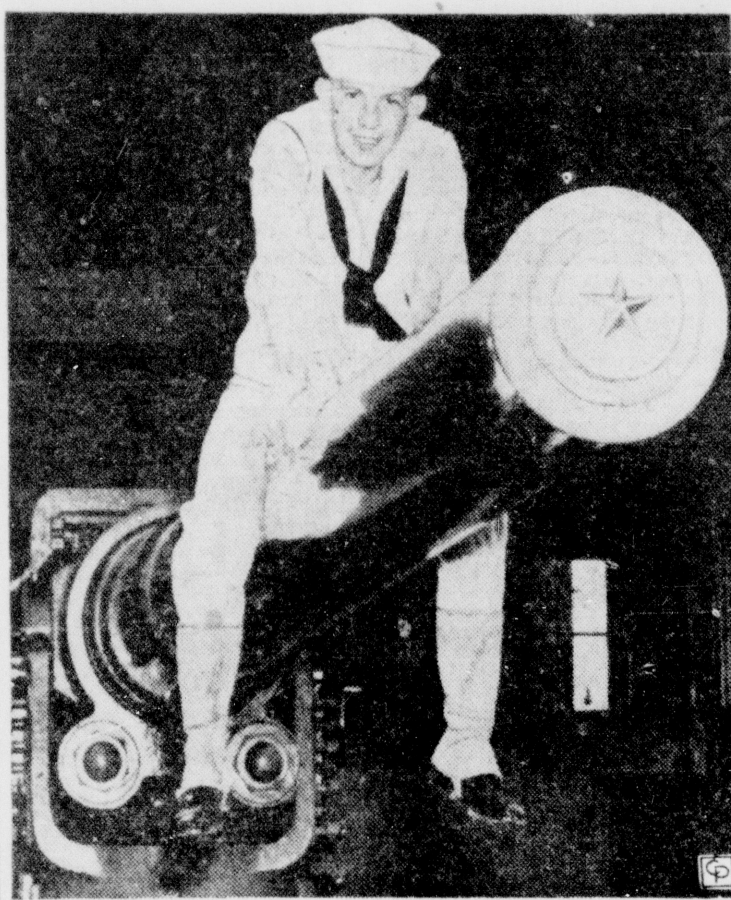

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Executive committee of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association today approved six changes in the grid code for its teams for the coming season.

The changes:

1. Prohibit out-of-bounds kick-offs by penalizing the kicking team five yards until a legal kick is made.
2. Permit use of a one-inch artificial tee for the kick-off.
3. Lessen severity of penalties for illegal forward passing when made beyond the line of scrimmage or when made by a team which did not put ball in play.
4. Clarify the offside rule.
5. Permit all fumbles to be advanced by opponents.
6. Permit passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

NOW HE RIDES ANOTHER WINNER

CARROLL BIERMAN, a former jockey, rides the barrel of a six-inch navy rifle as he trains his sights on his greatest race—victory over the enemies of the United States. Bierman, now in the navy, won the 1940 Kentucky derby on Gallahadion.

The SPORTLIGHT By GRANTLAND RICE

Chick Evans Still Winning
A few days ago a fellow by the name of Chick Evans won the city golf championship of Chicago.

Chick is now in his middle fifties. As far back as 1906, which happens to be thirty-eight years ago, he was the Kid Phenom of Edgewater, a great iron player even then.

Nearly four decades later Chick comes back to prove that he is still one of our best amateurs.

In 1916, some twenty-eight years ago, Chick won the United States open at Minikahda and the United States amateur at Merion. He is one of the few to win both the open and the amateur titles. The others are Bobby Jones, Francis Quimet, Jerry Travers and Johnny Goodman. Evans in his day and time has won more sectional championships than even an adding machine could enumerate, especially the western.

Chick without any question has been one of the greatest golfers the game has produced. He had just one fatal weakness—a weakness that kept him from winning more major titles including the open and our amateur thrones. This weakness was putting. While never long off the tee, he was long enough and as straight as one of Old Hickory's Tennessee Riflemen.

I have seen him plant a newspaper 160 or 170 yards away and pepper it with iron shots that rarely missed the target. He was one of the best masher players that ever played for the pin.

He was one of the few amateurs and pros who could stick a mid-iron rap within a few feet of the cup. His foot and body action were flawless. I doubt that any pro, was ever better in this respect.

But it just so happened that Chick could never putt. He tried every type of putter that was ever invented. He tried every type of stance and grip. He could find no cure for a fault that shut him out of one championship after another.

Chick and His Putter
He gave the first evidence of his weakness around the greens in 1910. He had Bill Fowler, two open and three to play, where he might have been five or six up with the Fownes touch on the green carpet. Chick three-putted the last three greens, as I recall the morbid details, and lost.

Jerry Travers putted his heart out in Chicago in 1912. Travers was one of the world's best when he could sight the cup or the pin. But he never putted.

Stymie Eliminated From PGA Tourney

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 14 (AP)—Marking one of the most drastic rule changes ever made in major tournament golf, the Professional Golfers Association today eliminated the stymie from the 1944 championship just getting under way at Manito course.

The ancient rule has been a fixture in golf. It has been played in the P.G.A. national championship since the event was founded in 1916 and has been part of the framework of golf since early days.

Jimmy Hines, of Amsterdam, N. Y., chairman of the tournament committee said he and seven other members of the committee had voted unanimously to abandon the stymie—which often blocks the putting path of one player on the green—unless the balls are six inches or less apart.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates went into a tie for second place in the National League today by winning two games from the Boston Braves, the second one a two-hitter for Preacher Roe. The first game, playoff of an eight-inning 5-5 tie July 2, ended 7 to 6; the other, 5 to 0.

The second game was the eighth consecutive triumph for the surging Buccaneers, and gave Roe his ninth victory of the year. Rip Sewell got credit for his thirteenth win in the other contest.

Charlie "Red" Barrett, pitching four innings of the unfinished game, was charged with its loss, and was debited with his second defeat of the day when the Pirates chased him to the showers in the sixth inning of the nightcap. The box scores:

Two Cumberland Students Named to Ratting Committee

Two Cumberland students at the University of Maryland have been appointed to the ratting committee of the Student Board. They are Bernard Eyer and Ann Troxell.

The committee will make plans for the first organized ratting since 1942. The purpose of the committee is to set up rat rules which are suitable for the conditions which will then be existing on campus.

When the committee has completed its plans, the program will be presented to the administration for approval.

Miss Troxell, who is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, lives at 223 Payette street; and Eyer, a Junior in the College of Engineering, lives at 608 Montgomery avenue.

Germans Holding Heller's Status Sgt. W. L. Norwood At Airports As War Prisoner Again Changed

Tech. Sgt. John M. Jankey,
Dies of Wounds Received in France

Tech. Sgt. William L. Norwood, 25, listed as missing in action in France since June 10, is a prisoner of the Germans, according to a War Department message to his wife Mrs. Dorothy Brockley Norwood, LaVale. Mrs. Norwood received the message yesterday afternoon.

Sgt. Norwood, who joined Company G in 1940, trained at Fort George G. Meade and then went on maneuvers at Camp Croft, S. C. After further training at Camp Blending, Fla., he went to Camp Kilmer, N. J., leaving for overseas duty in February, 1941. He is a member of the One Hundred Fifteenth Infantry, Thirty-ninth Division.

A former student at Allegheny high school, Sgt. Norwood worked in the bobbin stores department at the Celanese plant for four years before leaving Cumberland with Company G. His wife and 2-year-old daughter live with Mrs. Norwood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brockley, LaVale. Sgt. Norwood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norwood, Baltimore.

Three brothers also are serving in the army. Sgt. Lorenzo Norwood, 27, who has been in the army for five years, was an engineer at Pearl Harbor when it was attacked. He returned to this country last June 1 and is now attending a technical school at Camp Monroe, Va. Pvt. James P. Norwood, 21, went overseas in June and is now stationed in Italy. Pvt. Raymond J. Norwood, 18, attached to a paratrooper unit, went overseas a few weeks ago.

Tech. Sgt. John M. Jankey, 30, also a member of Company G, died in France July 18 from wounds suffered in action July 16, according to word received recently by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Jankey, 864 Sperry terrace. Before leaving Cumberland with Company G in February, 1941, Sgt. Jankey was employed in the spinning department at the Celanese plant.

Besides his parents, Sgt. Jankey is survived by one brother, Charles L. Jankey 524 Woodside avenue, and three sisters, Mrs. John Repach, Baltimore; Mrs. John Fradiska, this city; and Virginia Jankey, at home.

He was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran church, where a memorial service will be held for him next Sunday at 3 p. m.

Pvt. Dahl Wounded
Pvt. Harry Calvin Dahl, 17, USMC, was wounded in the battle of Iwo Jima, according to word recently received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dahl, 118 Valley street. Pvt. Dahl, whose father is manager of the Imperial Walton hotel, Baltimore avenue, volunteered for service in the marine corps on his seventeenth birthday, September 15, 1943, while he was a student at Allegheny high school. After training at Parris Island, S. C., he went overseas last March.

Constitution Pool Establishes New Attendance Mark

Three hundred and forty-seven persons passed through the turnstiles yesterday at the Constitution park swimming pool, boosting the season's total paid admissions to 29,069, which represents an all-time record for a single season.

This total tops by sixty-eight the previous high for one season—28,999—established in 1942. With twenty-nine days yet to go before the close of the season, total paid admissions are expected to exceed the 30,000 mark.

Ted Licot, manager of the pool, said that Herbert Natale, of 213 West Second street, purchased ticket No. 28,999—the pastebored that broke the previous record.

The pool was opened in June, 1940. It has been in operation from June to September every year except 1943 when it was closed August 22 as a water conservation measure. Paid admissions in 1940 numbered 23,867; 1941, 26,187; 1942, 28,998 and 1943, 21,080.

Midland Boy Is Hurt in Unusual Carnival Accident

Child Is Hurlled from Swing
after Hitting Tent
Flap

Torn from his seat and hurled about twenty feet through the air when he struck a tent flap while riding the swings at a Midland carnival, James Paul Shearer, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Shearer, Midland, suffered a broken leg last night.

The boy, according to reports, struck a tent flap that was being raised into position on a tent housing a stand and adjoining the swings. The flap was struck with such force that it was torn from the hands of the man placing it in position and the boy was jerked from his seat.

Witnesses said the boy held to a chain supporting the swing until it completed about half a loop, then lost his grip and was hurled across a hedge fence into the yard of John Ricker, twenty feet away.

The child was rushed to Miners hospital where attaches said he suffered a fractured right leg. His condition was reported to be good. Spectators reported the operator of the ride said the swing cleared the tent except for the flap that was being raised into place when the accident occurred. He added that he stopped the ride as rapidly as he could after he noticed what had happened.

Contempt Trial Slated for Man Sued for Divorce

Accused of failing to comply with a court order under which he was to pay counsel fee and weekly alimony to his wife during their divorce litigation, Earl E. Clark has been ordered by Chief Judge Walter C. Capper to appear in circuit court at 9:30 a. m. Saturday to show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

The petition asking the court to order Clark to appear for a hearing was filed by Mrs. Clark's attorney, Morris Baron.

Suit for absolute divorce was entered against Clark recently with Mrs. Clark charging that he treated her cruelly and failed to support her and their four children. She added that she went to work to provide for them.

On July 12, Associate Judge William A. Huster ordered Clark to pay Mrs. Clark's counsel fee as well as to pay her $15 weekly for her and the children's support. Clark was restrained from entering their home.

In his answer, filed July 17, Clark asserted that Mrs. Clark is employed and is able to prosecute. He added that his income is too limited to meet the court order but said that he would like to and would be able to if permitted to live in the same home with her. He asked that the suit be dismissed.

Clark is represented by Harold E. Naughton. A bill of complaint was entered in circuit court yesterday by Phyllis Bergman against Eugene T. Bergman.

RESTAURANT, TAVERN OWNERS MUST POST CEILING PRICES

The previous deadline of August 16 was extended because the lists were not received at the local board until last Saturday.

A triplicate copy of the list must be returned to the board by August 18 for checking against price ceilings filed by each owner earlier in the year. If all of the lists are not distributed in time to meet these deadlines, they will be extended, Mrs. Wolford said.
